Brit brought to book

OOPS, Britney Spears has done it again - and angered Madonna. Her Majesty, 47, is furious with the pop tart for publicly denouncing her beloved Kabbalah religion. So she's ordered Britney, 24, to return the valuable 12th-century Kabbalah book she gave her on her wedding to Kevin Federline, 28. The newly-preggers singer announced on her website that she no longer practises Kabbalah. "My baby is my religion," she revealed. An insider said: "Madonna spent months teaching Britney the Kabbalah system and splashed out thousands on the ancient scripture. She feels like she's wasted time, money and precious gifts on Brit." So, Madge really is a Material Girl.

KATE'S £60k KISS

WHAT man in his right mind pays £60,000 to kiss Kate Moss... then gives the chance to somebody else? Business tycoon Phillip Green, 54, that's who. The mega-rich BHS boss passed his super-costly smooch on to Hugh Grant's sexy girlfriend Jemima Khan. And for that, most of Britain's men-folk must surely be grateful. Face it, guys, how else are you gonna get the chance to see pics of Blighty's two sexiest ladies locked in a game of tonsil tennis? Phil insists he was just being chivalrous when he passed the smacker on to Jemima, who had furiously bid against him for the "Kiss Me Kate" item at the star-studded charity auction. And the vixens of sauce, both 32, certainly took their charity work very seriously and snogged for more than 60 seconds. The girls gave the kiss of life to thousands of impoverished children by raising loads of dosh for the Hoping Foundation For Palestinian Refugee Children at London's achingly cool Annabel's club. Our man with the slack jaw and the bulging eyes said: "It was unbelievable. There have been lots of rumours about Kate's sexuality and she certainly stoked things up with this sizzling display. "It was obvious that she was really enjoying herself. She slowly brushed Jemima's hair out of her face and wasn't satisfied until she'd got to grips with all of her fillings." The star-studded event, hosted by fashion designer Bella Freud, raised a staggering £200,000 in total. Although nothing raised as much as Kate's luscious lips, a game of golf with Hugh Grant, 45, and Jemima as caddy went for £12,000. Other lots, including tea with the Archbishop of Canterbury and a children's bedtime story read by Narnia actress Tilda Swinton, 44, raised £128,000 between them. We were more than happy to auction off our lips for the event. Sadly, £150 doesn't go far these days...

HAVE YOU GOT SOME JUICY GOSSIP FOR US?

HUSH HUSH

WHICH broadcaster recently got down and dirty at a gay massage parlour in Manchester? The famous fella was so paranoid about being seen on camera, he donned a disguise complete with false tash and flat cap. Except now he's being blackmailed by his masseuse to cough up the cash or else his secret will be revealed.

GEORGE Michael has given Geri Halliwell's new daughter a generous gift...a £500,000 trust fund.

The 42-year-old - who is godfather to Geri's three-day-old baby girl - gave Geri the present last week at a baby shower party at his North London home.

A guest said: "George just wanted to do something that would give the baby security for life." What a guy.

SPOTTED

IN London: Liz Hurley in Harrods Food Hall, Zoe Ball at Waterloo Station and James Nesbitt walking along Camden High Street. Keira Knightley strolling past Notting Hill Tube station, Bill Nighy at Heathrow Terminal 1 and Stephen Fry in Leicester Square.

KHAN I KISS IT?: Kate and Jemima get down to their very expensive snog. Phillip Green paid £60,000 to lock lips with supermodel Kate but kindly let Jemima do the honours

Poor old Paris felt such a fuel

YOU wouldn't have thought that Miss Moneybags Paris Hilton would have a problem when it comes down to cash. But that's exactly what she had after going out for dinner at The Ivy and trying to pay for fuel at a nearby petrol station. The 25-year-old heiress to the Hilton hotel chain eventually managed to use her charms on the cashier, who swiftly sorted out her pumping problem.

QUICKIE.. QUICKIE.. QUICKIE..

WE'VE got one Elle of a tip-off for you randy guys... Miss Macpherson loves playing the field. The Body, 43, bragged: "I'm single at the moment. But I have lots of people in my life. I sort of believe in joyous spontaneity."

NICOLE Richie is turning her talents to music, just like dad Lionel, 56. And the 24-year-old is determined to become a huge star. Our Stateside spy said: "Nicole is getting her dad to help but most of the writing is hers." Something tells us she's one to watch.

PETER Andre and Kate Price, aka Jordan, are gearing up to go on a well-deserved holiday after being caught up in a security scare. The couple are set to take a short break in Cyprus after a million-pound kidnap plot against Kate's two children was brought to light. Peter, 33, is also continuing to build Kate, 27, a luxury house on the island. Aw...

CHANTELLE and Preston caused much amusement when they went to the Ann Summers store on London's Kings Road. The sexy blonde, 22, and her fella, 24, pilled through a variety of saucy undies. An onlooker said: "They were both in their element, it was so sweet."

RENEE Zellweger is house hunting in the Lake District having fallen in love with the area while filming the Beatrix Potter biopic there. We hear the 37-year-old actress is looking in Ambleside.
